Poetry.

Don't let Mother Do it.

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
Do not let her slave and toil,
While you sit a useless idler,
Fearing your soft hands to soil.
Don't you see the heavy burthens
Daily she is wont to bear,
Bring the lines upon her forehead—
Sprinkle silver in her hair.

Daughter, don't let mother do it!
Do not let her bake and broil.
Through the bright summer hours;
Share with her the heavy toil.
See her eye has lost its brightness,
Faded from the cheek the glow,
And the step that once was buoyant
Now is feeble, weak and slow.

Daughter don't let mother do it!
She has cared for you so long,
Is it right the weak and feeble
Should be toiling for the strong?
Wake from your listless langour,
Seek her side to cheer and bless,
And your grief will be much better
When the sods above her press.

Daughter don't let mother do it!
You will never, never know
What were home without a mother,
Till that mother lieth low—
Low beneath the budding daises,
Free from earthly care and pain—
To the home so sad without her.
Never to return again.

Selected Story.

What Can Women Do?

BY MRS. A. M. FREEMAN.

Solomon Brown had five daughters. The oldest of these was twenty-six, the youngest seventeen. In some of the heathen countries it is considered a misfortune when a girl is born.—Solomon Brown's mind may have been colored with this heathenism—though he owned a pew in the church, and contributed consciously to the donations—for he shook his head in solemn disapproval as his family increased, declaring that girls were, and had been since the world began, a failure.

Dear little Mrs. Brown emphatically declared her skepticism at this broad assertion, saying with some spirit, "that the girls could not be dispensed with, and as the great Father had seen fit to create them, it might be with a consciousness that they might be pronounced good. Of course they were good." She would just ask Mr. Brown, what there was, that might be said truthfully, in disparagement of their own children?

"If they were boys, Lucy," footing up a dry goods bill, "they would be self-supporting. If, for instance, Matilda had been named Solomon—and, you know, that name has fallen to the eldest in our family for generations—she, or he rather, might have learned a trade, and would now be able, not only to care for himself, but to render needful assistance to the family. I am sure I never blamed Betsy Trotwood, though I didn't understand her, that she couldn't forgive David for not being a girl. I have never forgiven one of my girls that they disappointed me."

"Dear me, Solomen, I am sure the girls are doing the best they can.—Matilda is a very good dress-maker——."

"Bosh!" cries Solomon, impatiently. "the country is overrun with dress makers, I tell you, all this feathers, fuss and fumery is ruining us—that is the people. Don't you understand that every additional girl is an additional burden to some one? How much do you suppose, Lucy, I paid for ribbons last year? Only one hundred dollars."

"But, my husband, there were five of the girls, you know, not counting myself, and that makes twenty dollars only, for each. I am sure that is not very extravagant, at all. There's deacon Smart's Sallie, paid that sum for one Roman sash. Our girls are very handy about turning their things and fixing them up as good as new. There were only twenty-four yards in the dears' dresses, this spring—that is the dress of each—while Mrs. Million used thirty-five, and I must say that our girls were much the prettiest."

"And would have been prettier still if they'd been made out of eight," growled Solomon, desperately footing the accounts again.

Figures are obstinate facts. Solomon, in facing the sum total of united columns, became an obstinate man.

"I tell you, Lucy, we can't go on in this way, that's certain. Something must be done why don't they get married?"

But that was a useless question, for this was a New England State, and there were several thousand more women than men; and as one man was allowed only one wife, it was quite impossible that all could be provided with a husband.

"Dear me, Solomon," said the little wife, smiling humorously, "you forget that this isn't Utah—that there is no one to whom we may seal the darlings; that you, yourself, would quite disapprove of their going husband hunting."

Now, while Solomon had been talking thus complainingly and confidentially to his wife, his five unappreciated daughters had been listening in the next room.

"The old bear," cried Matilda, the oldest, under her breath.

"Poor papa," said Lucy, the youngest, her blue eyes full of tears.

"Poor papa, indeed," snapped out the second sister. "I do believe he begrudges us the bird's allowance which we eat."

"Bird's allowance! Josephine, I'm sure there isn't a heartier family of girls in this country than ours. No Canary's portion would do for me—of that, I'm sure! I do think it a shame that five great girls, able to work as we are, should depend upon one little, old broken down man for their support. Come, now 'Tilda, isn't it ridiculous? Don't you think that we might do something?"

"I'm sure," Matild said, "that I've been trying just the best I knew how. You know, I bought the machine, and then—then——"

"Well," Lucy said, laughing, "poor papa" had to make payments on it."

"I'm sure I couldn't help that, because I had expected to get plenty of sewing to do, and sewing you see——"

"Is a drudge in the market. No 'Tilda, and Josephine, and Sarah, and Flora, all of those pretty, traditional ways of a woman turning an honest penny, are out of date. I've been thinking all this over and I've made up my mind. Come, girls, will you stand by me? Have you the courage to lay aside your dainty slippers, to encase your feet in heavy shoes, to let the sun kiss brown freckless on your face—in fact to wear the bloomer"

"A bloomer," the four cried together.

"Yes," my dears, "for of course the work, that I have laid out for us to do, couldn't be done in trains. I have been thinking that we had better take Jacob Sloam's farm for a year," and Miss Lucy, as she spoke, opened her pocket knife and commenced whittling a bit of stick in true Yankee style.

"Jacob Sloam's farm!" they cried aghast.

"Yes, dears, I was over talking to Jacob, yesterday, and he's quite delighted that we should have tho't of making the experiment. He is sure, he says, that it will be a success. Only think, girls, how nice it would be, if we could help the old father now, after all the trouble he has had with us! And what a triumph, too, if we could prove to him, that girls are really a blessing, at least; if not exactly, still worth being born.—What say you? Will you put your names to the contract? Come, now, don't be cowardly, or to try to find excuses for shrinking a duty. Jacob never had five more able-bodied people than we are."

"What will the world way? And then, Lucy, you have had an offer, you know. Will Frank Lawler, be satisfied, that his future wife shall engage in an unlady-like occupation?"

"If he is dissatisced that a woman should do what she may do well, I'm very glad to have an opportunity of learning it before I'm Mrs. Frank Lawler, instead of Luey Brown. If I have girls, you may rest assured, they shall be self-supporting, quite independent of outside helps towards gaining a livelihood. If they have a talent for music above the ordinary possession they may become teachers; if not, they will not spend four hours a day in useless beating of their white, helpless fingers against some ill-used piano keys. If they are greatly gifted with superior inteligence they may go into the proffessions, if not, they will learn trades—I don't mean milliners and dressmakers, and so on—but nice little light trades, like watch-making, and engraving, and dratting, and, indeed, heavier ones, if they have muscle. We all have muscle. There is no excuse that we should remain idle. The world is full of work, and I can't understand how any honest calling should be unwomanly. Come girls, let us go and sign the contract, which binds us to work old Jacob's farm."

"Dear me, Solomon," said the wife Lucy, in the evening, "you could never guess what those girls have done."

"Perhaps purchased each a new silk," growled Solomon, without lifting his eyes from his paper.

"No, indeed, not," cried the wife indignantly. "They've rented Jacob Sloam's farm—eighty acres, and twenty of it in fruit."

"What," cried Solomon, the paper falling helplessly at his feet. "You don't surely mean our girls, not Matilda, and Josephene, and Sarah, and Flora, and Lucy?"

"I mean no one else's girls surely," the wife replied, a little crossly.—"They take possession in the morning. Jacob Sloam is to find everything, and they are to have one-half."

"I just tell you, Lucy, what it is. This is the most consumate piece of humbug I ever heard of. It will be a dead failure, and they'll make themselves the laughing stock of the neighborhood. Farming, indeed? Why 'Tilda is that afraid of her hand that she never sweeps even, without gloves; and Flory raps her head in a towel to dust. I've seen Josephene do the breakfast things with the dish rag clinging to a fork, and Sarah wraps her fingers with a bit of cloth, each one separately if she has the vegetables to prepare. Grave farmers they will make!" And Solomon Brown went back to his paper with a scornful chuckle.

Solomon, too, was some of a fogy. Women were women, and women they must remain to the end of the chapter. A great pity, he had often said, that it was so, but nature could not be tortured out of her old, well worn chanels by education. Eve, he considered, as having been a viscious sort of little body, bending poor Adam's nose down close to the grindstone, and there her daughters had relentlessly held it, through all the long years since that first tragedy.

Solomon believed in progression.—He thought that the sciences might be better understood, that new discoveries were to be made; that the Atlantic would be crossed in a balloon; but Solomon's radicalism didn't include the possibilities of the coming woman. She was to be what she had been from the beginning. So he poohpohed at his daughters' farming, not believing that any good thing should come out of Nazareth.

It was an uphill road to those five dainty daughters of Solomon Brown. But in one thing they resembled thier father. They were obstinate, and when they learned his prediction as to their failure, they were quite determined not to fail.

They were up early and worked late. Their strawberries were a success. They gave employment to a number of girls in the village in gathering their small fruits, thus recognizing the true policy, that women must help each other. They kept one hired man, and under his instructions these young ladies learned to turn a ready hand to all kind of farm labor.

Old Solomon Brown's "pooh-poohs" grew less emphatic, and he began to speak with a sort of shame-faced pride of "Our girl's place." Then when the fame of these women farmers had traveled far, and people came from a distance to inspect personally their success. Solomon began to feel proud in saying, "Yes sir, they are my girls."

"Your girls are all boys then?" said one smiling, quoting Rip Van Winkle.

"Just as good as boys," said Solomon Brown blushing, at the retraction of old sentiments. But theories must fall before convictions, and well filled wheat, fine potatoes, good corn, etc., were more convincing to Solomon to his daughters' worth, than volumes favoring the "Subjection of woman."

Solmon Brown's daughters still hold Jacob Sloam's farm. Lucy, the youngest, is married to Frank Lawler, but instead of her going home to him, as is the manner of the world, he came home to her.

Under the homestead laws a woman that isn't at the head of a family—that is a widow—cannot pre-empt land. If this was not the case, I do believe, that one of Soloman Brown's girls would go west and take up a piece of land. As it is, they are all going in the spring, and Solomon will enter a hundred and sixty acres in his own name, which in reality will belong to his daughters, as it will be purchased with the profits of their farming Sloam's land.

Character.

From the cradle to the grave the character of an individual, like his body, is undergoing constant changes. It grows, it developes, it matures, it ripens, until the frost of death gives it the fixedness of marble; then as the tree falls so it must lie.

Character, like statute, temperament, is to a great extent inherited. Parents outline their children before their birth, and herein is a thought that should give many a parent food for reflection.

Great as is the various circumstances on moulding character, the influence of one's own will may be equally potent. "Thought and affliction, passion, hell itself, she turns to favor and to prettiness," said Laertes of Ophelia when her reason was "like sweet bells jangled, and out of tune." Even thus may the strong will compel poverty, disaster, bereavement, no less than prosperity and hapiness, to become the ministers of grace and perfectness to the aspiring, resolute, patient soul.

The corner-stone of all noble character is truth, and as the virtues ever go hand in hand, with this will naturally be associated purity, justice, integrity, reverence. Therefore the first endeavor of the parent should be to quicken in his child's breath a love of truth, the hatred of falsehood. The first effort of him that would turn away from evil and love good is to cultivate in himself perfect sincerity and utter truthfulness. With this as a foundation there is no limit to the possible growth of the human soul toward absolute virtue and perfectness.

Just as tendencies in the body to disease and deformity may be modified, and sometimes eradicated by a severe and skillfull regimen, so may faults in character be purged and smoothed away; flaws may be polished out and virtures incorporated, if, while it is still pliant, the right steps are taken to make it symmetrical and well rounded.

A single element of weakness or of vice may taint the entire character. For a while it may seem firm and sound, but as a little leaven leaveth the whole lump so the outgrowth of one vicious thought may gradually undermine the strongest principles and blast the labors of a lifetime. It is not safe to have one inch of wormy timber in the stoutest ship; it is not safe to harbor in the heart the smallest element that is not wholly virtuous; for when the fiery blast of temptation try the soul, if stubble is found therein, it will surely be consumed and leave behind it a blackened, gaping chasm.

Down deep in the inner man, where no eye but God can see, and only the consciousness of the individual can penetrate, should be laid away against the day of trial solid bars and bullion of gold, so that the "promise to pay" can all be made good, dollar for dollar. We want no inflation here; here not even "the best currency in the world" will answer the purpose. The image of our virtue must be stamped in current gold.

Not by accident or chance does the choicest fruit mature upon our trees How carefully we prune them; how closely we watch to destroy their enemies; how skillfully we cultivate them, and how we rejoice when success crowns our labors! Not by accident or chance did Charles Sumner become the noble man he was. How diligently did he cultivate art, litrature, and the virtues, that made for him the spotless character he wore so proudly and will wear forever.

Our labors of aspiration and conquest must last till the breath leaves the body. It is never safe to rest upon our oars until we are anchored in the harbor. Life is full of adverse currents that even when we are almost ashore may drift us away from the desired haven.

A youth devoted to the cultivation of essential virtue, a middle life spent in the exercise of whatever is ennobling and beneficient, an old age showing the ripe of integrity and honor—what higher aspiration can a human being have than to realize these in succession. The life which is lived rightly has made provision for the life that is to come, for immortality.

How Victor Hugo Works.

Victor Hugo has published "Ninety Three" at his own expense. The French publisher who paid $80,000 for "The Man Who Laughs," and did not make money by the bargain, has discouraged others from imitating his example. After a vast amout of haggling with Michel Levy, Hugo got him to take his book for ten per cent, agreeing to pay all costs. His profits in France alone cannot fall short of 300,000 frances. A Paris letter says that Hugo rarely makes use of the pen. He works with the brain and not with the hand. When composing his works he places the floor of his room, holding high his Olympain head, and snifining the air, like Jab's charger, dictating to a secretary sitting at a desk in one corner He dictates very slowly, sentence by sentence, as Moses, to whom the poem often compares himself must have dictated the words engraven upon the ancient tablets of stone. Hugo warks incessantly, wearing out two secretaries when pressed for time, and eats as heartily as any man alive. The amount of fish he consumes by himself would supply a small family, and his beefsteaks are of old-fashioned dimensions. On the morning his son died Hugo was correcting his proofs, and he went back to the work the moment he returned from the cemetery.

The Massachuset married women have been still further emancipated, and soon, we may expect, they will be rescued from those frightful depths of bondage to which they have been so long doomed. The gallant General Court has just passed a law, which the gallant Governor has approved, by the provision of which the feme covert in Massachusetts may convey her real estate, and make oral and written contracts, in the same manner as if she were sole, and to the same ext

THE ATTEMPT TO REORGANIZE THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

In a late issue we alluded to the Democratic reunion that took place a few weeks ago in New York city. The old Tammany veterans who had been blown to pieces in the last Presidential campaign came to the front, smiling and happy over the promises of the future. A friend of ours, who was an eye witness to the scene, writes us "to see the band of brothers shake hands all around, and embrace each other as if they had been parted for a century, was enough to draw tears from a cast iron statue." We have no doubt of it. If it fell short of actual sublimity, it was no fault of the brethren or the cause which brought them together.

The time and place for this reunion were fitting. No where on the American continent could a better place be found than in the city of New York, unless we except Blackwell's Island, the home of that retired apostle of modern Democracy, WILLIAM M. TWEED. The very air you breathe in that great metropolis is ladened with the peculiar odor of Democracy. Its tax books are happy reminders of what the nation might become under a system so pure and exacting as that which has blessed that city from the reign of FERNANDO the First to the retirement of WILLIAM the Last! So if a Democratic reunion fails to draw the proper inspiration from New York, then hope is lost, and despair has settled, like a black pall, over the campaigns of the future.

But the fossilized elements of the party that met in happy reunion appear to have been inspired? They clothed the old political skeleton, which had been hanging in the wigwam for the past twelve years, in its ancient garments, and, covering its face with a vail, rattled it over the boards as the genuine form of "Jeffersonian Democracy!" Aye, they were inspired, but, our friend above referred to, more than intimates that it was with old rye! Be that as it may, they were inspired and the decree has gone forth that the Democracy must rally. They have set their hands and seals to a solemn covenant to try once more to get control of the Goverment. There might be some hope if they could manage to induce the American people to forgive and forget. The former can't because the latter won't. Alas! for Democratic hopes.

THE PASQUOTANK DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democracy of Pasquotank met in Convention at the Court House in Elizabeth City on Saturday last. This was an adjourned meeting of the Convention called about a month ago. Then they thought they saw evidence of a split in the Republican ranks which they hoped would continue to widen and of course benefit them. But on Saturday, as they re-convened, we noticed that each Democratic countenance was overspread with disappointment, if not despair. Instead of widening they saw the Republican colums closing up, uniting, strenghtening. "What shall we do?" was the question. On this there was great diversity of sentiment. Some suggested an adjournment for thirty days; others no nominations; still others insisted on a partial ticket. The latter course finally prevailed.

They began on the candidate for the House of Commons. The committee suggested the name of C. A. NASH, of Nixonton. A member of the committee offered the name of Col. JONES, of Newland. He is a gentleman of character and had once acceptably represented the county in the Legislature. But the young men—the "new lights" as Dr. SPEED calls them, were running the Convention and they incontenantly threw the old veteran overboard. NASH was declared the nominee.

For Sheriff and Probate Judge no nominations were made.

For Commissioners they nominated GEO. W. CHARLES and W. W. GRIFFIN of Elizabeth City, SAMUEL WILLIAMS, of Newland, MILES WHITEHURST, of Providence and Wm. L. DAVIS of Salem.

For Register of Deeds the committee recommended W. R. REID, but one of the cooler heads, reflecting that their cavalier repulse of the old men of the party might react, suggested the name of our amiable and venerable friend Rev. SETH MORGAN. The young bloods hesitated, but finally enough votes were secured to nominate him. We noted the effect it produced upon the old man's countenance. It was wreathed in smiles! But alas for human hopes! a nomination is not always equivalent to an election.

Then came the resolutions which were read by J. P. WHEDBEE, Esq. They were about as acrid as Democratic resolutions usually are, but in this instance one was added, bitterly denouncing the men who had supported the "Salary bill." This brought the "old war horse," Dr. SPEED to his feet. He had been a silent listener, but this uncalled for slapping every prominent Southern man from GEORGE WASHINGTON on down to Senator MAT RANSOM in the face so aroused the indignation of the old Trojan that he could sit still no longer. In words of burning, aye and telling eloquence he denounced the resolution and held up to public ridicule and everlasting scorn the pitiful and cheap demagoguery of those who would thus presume to insult the truest friends the South has ever had. He insisted that the resolution be stricken out. Its author made an appeal that it be sustained. When the question was put 32 voted for striking out and 32 against it. Col. MARTIN, the chairman, was obliged to give the casting vote. He voted to sustain the resolution but explained that he did so more on the ground that it was reported by the committee than because he thought it expedient. Thus on the "Salary Grab" the Democracy of Pasquotank are equally divided.

DO NOT MISREPRESENT US.

A correspondent who writes us a kind and friendly letter informs us that there are those in his section who charge that we are at heart hostile to the people of the South and that we are actuated by a feeling of bitterness toward them all. They misrepresent us, that's all. Every issue of our paper proves their charges false. We respect sincerity and honesty wherever we meet it. We recognize the fact that geography and race have their influence upon the beliefs of men. The accident of birth—the fact that one man was born in Boston and the other in Charleston during the years of slavery made it almost impossible but that the two should honestly differ. And when the war came, which seemed in the nature of things inevitable to settle this difference, the Southern man fought heroically for what seemed to him right, and he died bravely for it. As a Northern man we have always conceeded this—that the soldiers of the Confederacy, though misled, were brave men and sincere. Their bravery is a part of the country's history. They were Americans—our southern brothers. They were wrongly led. They battled for a principle which they were taught to hold dear. But the interests of humanity required, and the full vindication of the great principles underlying our government demanded that they should be overcome and that the cause of the difference and estrangement be forever removed. Now that this has been consummated and the Republic can serve her purpose as a nation and exhibit her true meaning with integrity in the history of mankind, we are the last man that would cherish feelings of ill will or manifest hostility or bitterness. To do either would be to do violence to every prompting of our heart. No, no! our earnest prayer is that the people of both sections may forget the rancors and the strife of the past and feel more and more like working together for the common good. It is to the interest of each to do so, for they are bound to each other by a common Constitution and destined to live together under a common Government, forming unitedly but a single member of the great family of nations. This is our feeling and on every proper occasion we show it.

LET NO ONE BE DECEIVED.

It is an old and well established axiom that "actions speak louder than words." It always has been so, and it ever will. It applies to politics as well as to all things else. A man may profess that he is a good Republican and he may prate about his earnestness and sincerity until he is hoarse, it amounts to nothing so long as his actions do not correspond. A good Republican not only stands fair and square upon the platform of his party, but he will refuse to do anything that will aid or abut the political enemy.

In this campaign the Democracy do not expect to induce any considerable number who have affiliated with the Republicans to vote their ticket. They know better than to expect this. But they do hope to accomplish their end in another way. They whisper into the ears of ambitious aspirants for Congress and the Legislature and other offices "bolt, and we'll furnish you the sinews of war besides paying you well for your time." They confidently expect a return for the pecuniary investment in these "bolters" being able to draw off enough votes to defeat the regular nominees and thus secure the success of the Democratic ticket.

We understand the whole game from Congress down. Not a single one of these "bolters" have the least idea of an election. Notwithstanding their loud protestations they are not sincere. Their very purpose is to defeat and break down the party they claim to venerate and love. To deceive the people every artifice of demagogueism will be resorted to—aye, if necessary, they will deluge the channels on both sides their faces with copious lachrymatory showers. They'll scold and denounce and beg and cry to get a following. The honest voter will first ask himself the question: "Is Democracy right, or is it wrong? If right I'll vote its ticket direct; if wrong my plain duty, in order to defeat it, is to vote the regular Republican Ticket. In voting that I'm not voting for men but for the PARTY. The party is the representative of my political faith. This cannot be sustained without organization. To maintain organization the action of regular Conventions must be sustained. The only effectual way to do this is to stand by and support its regular nominees."

THE COUNTRY PRESS

Our old friend HON. JOHN B. PACKER Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, closed his able speech in favor of the free exchange and transmission of newspapers through the mails in these words. They are noble words and the man who uttered them should not be forgotten:

The history of the newspaper press in this country, and of its steady advancement and magnificent success would be but the history of the country itself. Defending, educating, or leading public opinion, it has, as a rule, been found in the advance in all measures of progress and reform, and who so bold as to venture to conjecture how much this country is to day indebted to this agency, fostered, encouraged, and protected by the people and the Government as it has been in the past, for our national greatness, prosperity, and renown. These weekly newspapers, let me add, reaching as they do every fireside, every workshop, every abode of civilized life, and shedding their rays of intelligence even in the remote and waste places not penetrated by other means or agencies of education and information, exert an influence at once too powerfull to be neglected, and of far too much national importance not to command and receive the respectful consideration of the representatives of the American people.

We learn that much dissatisfaction exists in the First Congressional District in the radical ranks, there being a strong feeling in favor of Ransom, a member of the last Legislature from the First Senatorial District, and against Cobb. The nominating Convention, recently in session at Plymouth, was in session three days in consequence of this division of sentiment, and the nomination of Cobb was only obtained at last by the withdrawal of the whole Ransom wing from the Convention, which wing subsequently met and nominated Ransom. So there is really two Radical Congressional tickets in the field in that District.—Raleigh News.

There is but a single word of truth in the above. Did our Raleigh cotemporary make the statements recklessly, or was it imposed on by some reckless correspondent? There never was a nomination made in this district that gave more general satisfaction than this one of Mr. COBB. The feeling in favor of Mr. RANSOM is not a strong one—is not one tenth part as formidable as it was for TIM MORGAN four years ago, and the latter was badly beaten. The Convention did not last three days; Mr. RANSOM'S withdrawal did not influence the nomination one way or the other, for he only carried the delegates from his own county with him, and COBB got 10½ out of 14 votes cast. The "whole Ransom wing" numbered just five delegates and were entitled to just one vote in the Convention. That "wing," counting 1 in 15 did meet and nominated RANSOM, but being a bolting movement, and an insignificant one at that, it is not true that there is really two Radical Congressional tickets in the field in this District.

Have any of our readers stopped to think that we are ever on the eve of discoveries and inventions? Some are astounding, others startling! Drop by by drop water dulls its way through that inert mass—rock. Air, eight hundred times as light as water, when aroused sweeps down a forest or levels a city. Steam will burst through earth, water rock, in earthquake and volcano. Electricity whirls the planets through space, and gives life to all. Now comes thought, the essence of all these forces, to invent some new machine to utilize the light and heat of the sun. On and on is the watchword!

JOSIAH TURNER Jr., editor of the Sentinel, was a candidate for the Congressional nomination in the Raleigh District, but he was beaten. The party preferred one Capt. J. J. DAVIS, of Franklin. The garrulous JOSIAH will be obliged to subside. He wanted a chance to canvas, and there is danger that, like a mud volcano, he'll burst if not allowed to "erupt." On the principle that carbuncles have to be lanced and aching teeth pulled, he had better be allowed to wag his tongue wherever the people are willing to endure the infliction

A Letter from Mr. Jernigan.

HARRELLSVILLE, N. C., }
June 6th, 1874. }

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

In the last number of your paper appeared an editorial with an extract from an article written by me some time in December 1872, which, if unexplained is calculated to produce the impression that I, at one time, wavered in my fidelity to the principles of the Democratic Conservative Party. In view of this, you would favor me very much by publishing this letter as an explanation of said article and to prevent any misunderstanding of it in the future.

All know that just before the nomination of Mr. Greeley for President in 1872 as well as for a short time after he was nominated, the Baltimore Gazette advised the Democratic Conservative Party not to recognize the Liberal Republicans at all but to hold a convention of their own and nominate a regular Democratic Conservative candidate. The Gazette however, did endorse Mr. Greeley's nomination after it had been ratified by the Baltimore Convention.

But just as soon as the result of the Presidential election was made known, and it was ascertained that Mr. Greeley had been defeated, there appeared in the Gazette a leading editorial denouncing the Liberal Republican movement and counseling the Democratic Conservatives of the country to sever all connections with it at once.

The position taken by me was simply this: That as the Liberal Republicans had manifested a willingness to cooperate with the Democratic Conservatives in defeating the Grant Party, no failure in this effort could justify the latter in ignoring, entirely, the former, for after sacrificing everything to defeat Grant and his party it would be worse than treachery to give them the cold shoulder, because unsuccessful, and any party guilty of such did not deserve the confidence and support of honest men. This was all I meant. And if the time the article was written, the relations of political parties in this country at that time, he considered, I think my position will be correctly understood, I never had any idea of endorsing the Grant Party or the Caldwell Party in this State. Never dreamed of doing any such thing; as my votes in the past indicate, and in the future will prove.

Believing that you would not intentionally misrepresent me, I am

Yours Very Respectfully,
T. R. JERNIGAN.

From Washington.

In the United States Senate a bill was reported for changing the Bureau of Statistics into the Bureau of Internal Commerce and enlarging its duties and powers. The West Point Appropriation bill was passed. The political disabilities of a number of Ex-Confederates were removed. The Pension and Indian Appropriation bills were passed. The fees of Pension Agents was reduced from 30 to 25 cents for preparing papers and administering oaths. The Transportation bill was discussed

In the House of Representatives the bill for the gradual reduction of the army was passed. A proposition was submitted to amend the Constitution so as to provide for the election of United States Senators by the people. The amended Tariff bill was passed with an additional section taxing sales of gold and stocks one-twentieth of one per cent. The Mormon bill was passed by a vote of 155 yeas to 59 nays.

Tax on Merchandise.

We have received several letters from friends in the country asking explanation of the law in regard to the advalorem tax on merchandise on hand the first of April, and order to correctly answer such enquiries, we yesterday called on the State Treasurer and received the fol. lowing as the construction of that department of the law. This is strictly official, and no assessors, list takers, or tax collectors can possibly contravene:

In section 9, sub division 7, of the act styled "Machinery Act," it is expressly provided that "goods, wares, and merchandise of all kinds," shall be listed for ad valorem tax. The several acts concerning revenue passed since the adoption of the present State Constitution required that "all personal property whatever" should be listed, and merchandise being considered personal property, the acts were constructed accordingly. This provision of the several acts referred to was based upon the language of the Constitution, and the construction of this department of the law has been, and is, in harmony with the Constitution. Every person shoul list his stock of goods on hand 1st of April for the purpose of advalorem tax. Raleigh News.

PAIN-KILLER!

TIME TESTS THE MERITS OF ALL THINGS.

Thirty Years is certainly long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the Pain Killer is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparelleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized, and its reputation as a Medicine of Great Virtue, is fully and permanently established. It is the great Family Medicine of the age. Taken internally, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhoea, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowell Complaint, Painters' Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat and Coughs. Taken Externally, it cures Bruises, Boils, Felons, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost Bitten Feet, &c.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor mortals, as inevitable as death and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore, it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on emergency, when we are made to feel the exeruciating agony of pain, or the depressing influences of disease. Such a remedial exists in Perry Davis' "Pain-Killer," the fame of which has extended over all the earth. Amid the eternal ices of the Polar regions, or beneath the intolerable and burning sands of the tropics its virtues are known and appreceiated. And by it suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills. The effect of the Pain-Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in cases of Cough, Cold, Bowel Complain, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores and Sprains, Cuts, Stings of Insects, &c., and other causes of suffering has secured for it the most prominent position among the medicines of the day. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. Call for Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain-Killer, and take no other.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN SYRUP (AN IRON TONIC)

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "athousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

☞ We learn that Bishop MARVIN, of Missouri, will preside at the Methodist Conference at this place on the 18th of November.

☞ Our cotemporary at Washington this State, has decided to stop Express-ing it. He eafter it will be an Echo. The name of the paper has been changed.

☞ The Judicial Convention will be held at Hertford on Wednesday next. The Senatorial Convention will be held at this place on the Wednesday following.

☞ The latest market reports are at New York, gold $1.10¼, cotton 18¼, corn 82½cts; at Norfolk, cotton no change, corn quiet.

☞ The Republicans of Middle Township, Chowan county, held a large meeting on the 30th ult. at which Rev. GATES PARKER presided and L. D. HOLLY acted as Secretary. Addresses were made by LEAH HOLLY and others. The nomination of Hon. C. L. COBB was endorsed.

☞ A cotemporary makes a good suggestion. He says: Plant a sunflower in each hill of beans and you will get suitable beans poles. The stalk grows in advance of the vine and makes an excellent support. You not only obtain a good bean pole gratis, but you have a large amount of valuable seed for your fowls in the fall.

☞ MILLS L. EURE, Esq., the Conservative candidate for Judge, and T. R. JERNIGAN, Esq., one of the Conservative candidates for State Senator, were in town this week. Both being readers and patrons of the NORTH CAROLINIAN, they called and paid their respects to the editor.

☞ The Republicans of Pasquotank send greeting to her sister counties and say that personal differences are being reconciled and all are harmonizing and uniting for the party's good. That there were some dissentions is true but they are rapidly healing and the watchword now all along the line is, "Stand by the ticket." SUPPORT THE REGULAR NOMINEES.

☞ As much as we have differed in political sentiment with Dr. SPEED we have always admired him for one thing—his bold declaration of opinion no matter who was hit. And it is because of his independence—his refusal to be "cabined cribbed, confined" by the time serving politicians that the "new lights" of the "rank tail lawyer" tribe were afraid of him at Edenton and sought one more pliable and bidable to be their Congressional standard bearer.

☞ On Wednesday the 3d inst. the steamer Astoria, of the Pioneer line, broke her rudder when going into Edenton Bay. Being unable to procure a tug it was necessary for the Str. L. G. Cannon to miss her trip to Newberne last Friday in order to tow the Astoria to Norfolk for repairs. On that account there was no steamer to Norfolk Sunday evening. The Raleigh took the place of the Astoria and hereafter the steamers will run regularly with the exception of one trip which the Mary E. Roberts will lose to have her passenger accomodations enlarged and be refurnished. It will be announced next week which trip she will lose.

☞ Our space is limited. Correspondents must learn to practice brevity. A shot gun only kills game a few yards off; the same lead in a rifle ball hits the mark at three hundred. The poet editor understood the matter. Said he:

His manuscript? Ah yes
He's come to ask it?
Well, look about—but stop: I guess
You'll find it in the basket.

'Tis there we usually send all long-winded articles. Our advice to our friends—and we like to hear from them all—is to "boil it down.'

For editors do not like to print
An article really long,
And the busy reader does not care
For a couple of yards of song:
So gather your wits in the smallest space,
If you'd win the author's crown,
And every time you write, my friend,
Boil it down.

☞ Numerous are the cases of heroism that the active, moving world never hears of. Along our coast there are instances continually occurring, of brave men, at the risk of life, saving the lives of shipwrecked mariners, sometimes with none but the Unseen Eye as witness; at other times with men looking on whose courage is not sufficient to make them risk the danger of the dashing waves threatening the lives of unfortunatet victims that must sink to never rise again unless the succor comes from shore On the 3rd of May, on Body's Island, the Brig Waltham, with several men on board, was wrecked. An old man named JESSE ETHERIDGE, 68 years of age, living on the beach saw the peril and at once resolved to make an effort to save them. He got his serf boat in readiness and, inspired by the old man's courage, his young nephew and two other men, J. A. and B. MIDGETT, volunteered to go with him The undertaking was one of extreme danger, it might be death, but the mission was to save human life. They pushed off shore, reached the sinking vessel and saved the men! Thrilling tales have been told with warp and woof of fact more slender far than this one incident. And many like it have occurred on this same Island.

☞ Of course we do not intentionally misrepresent any one, but for the life of us after re-reading Mr. JERNIGAN'S article published in the NORTH CAROLINIAN of Jan. 8th, 1873 we do not see that his "letter" in this issue helps him any. Taking the text and context of his article together we find it to be denunciatory of the Democracy because that party, at heart, still adhered to the principles adopted in New York in 1868—a platform, as he stated it, "of undying hostility to the great chart of human rights embodied in the 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution," and it was because of the disposition manifested by the party to continue this opposition that he made his appeal to Old Line Whigs, and he claimed to be one himself, to unite their fortunes with the Republican party. Surely we are not amenable to the charge of doing our friend the least injustice.

☞ Major YEATES, the Democratic candidate for Congress, arrived in Elizabeth City on Saturday evening and his political friends gave him a serenade. Of course he responded. His speech was full of bitterness, full of wormwood, full of gall. We had heard of him as an exemplary christian and were prepared to believe that as a follower of the Divine Master he would preach love and justice and brotherhood, but we were mistaken. He virtually declared himself an apostle of hate, a missionary to array race against race, an advocate of the strong oppressing the weak. It is well the illusion is dispelled. Never will the people of this District endorse a man who thus defiantly declares hostility to the great principles incorporated in the Constitution of his country. He is unfit to represent a freedom loving constituency. The demagogue appeals of all such men, inspired as they must be by the worst passions of perverted humanity, are calculated to unite the true friends of Liberty and to cause every earnest and conscientious Republican to rally closer to the party that deals impartially, metes out justice to all and guarantees protection to even the humblest citizen of the Republic. This visit and speech of the Democratic "standard bearer" occurred at an opportune time. It closed up the work that had just begun, of consolidating the Republicans of Pasquotank. They are now a unit.

ETHRIDGE.—At Rose Dale on the 8th inst. Mrs. ETHERIDGE wife of J. R. Etheridge, Esq.

SEEING IS BELIEVING:—If'd this liberal age there are persons to be found who are so blinded by prejudice are not to believe that a man medicated stimulants is an item of immense importance in the catalogue of human remedies, we should like them to witness the wonderful effects which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are now producing all over the country in cases of intermittent fever, rheumatism, billious disorders, dyspepsia nervous complaints, constitutional depility, mental depressions and premature decay. The great vegetable invigorant and it's cures have been before the people for more than twenty-five years, and in every year of the twenty-five its popularity has increased and its sale has become larger. Yet there are no doubt many thousand of intelligent citizens who have never had an opposanity of observing for themselves the surprising changes which this unebualled tonic and alterative produces in systems which seems to be hopelessly broken, and in cases of diseases which are not amenable to ordinary remedies. Probably many of these regard the statements made in relation to the sanitary properties of the Bitters which some degree of incredulity. Would that all such skepticks could see with their own eyes what the medicine is doing for the sick and feeble every where, what a stuff of life it is proving to the aged and infirm, what a help in times of trouble to feeble women suffering from the complaints and disabilitie peculiar to the sex, what a protection to health and life in malarious districts, what a panacea for languor and depression, what a specific for all diseases in which the system requres to le vitalized and sustained. Of all stimulants it is the purest and safest of all tonics the most genial, effective and agreeable, of all alteratives the least violent and the most certain in its beneficia results.

TWO AMERICAN MAGAZINES.

The excellence of AMERICAN MAGAZINES has become so well recognized abroad that one of the leading English Papers, the LONDON WEEKLY REGISTER, in a recent issue, thus speaks of SCRIBNER MONTHLY.

"We are constrained to own that SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY carries off the prize against all shilling monthly serials for brilliancy of illustrations and variety of contents. It is simply a wonderful shillen's worth. Nothing can be more charming than the cuts, full of force and vigor; the light and shade are managed with a truly artistic power. Out of its one and twenty original articles, we really do not know which to choose as best, for each and all are excellent."

Not only is it true that Scribner's Monthly excels the English Magazines, but it is "The Best of the American Monthlies."

In the extent, variety and artistic excellence of its illustration of American themes, it has never been even approached, much less excelled. It has a large page and gives a greater variety in its contents than any other of the Standard American Monthlies.

In literary character, and in the brilliancy and ability of its Editorial Departments, it enjoys an equal pre-eminence.

Its conductors started with the definite aim of making it the best magazine in the world, of which they have for a moment lost sight, and they point with pride and pleasure to the May and June numbers, recently issued and ask for them a candid examination and a careful comparison of their merits with those of other magazines; and they renew their pledge to the public to strive for still higher excellence in the future.

A considerable demand has recently arisen in England for Sir. Nicholas, Scribner's New magazine for boys and girls, one published her desiring to secure an edition of three thousand of first bound volume (when completed), with his imprint.

The success of St. Nicholas in this country has been even more remarkable than that of Scribner's Monthly. It is pronounced to be "an ideally perfect Magazine for children" and, as is the case with all the best literature for children, it has been found to possess surpassing interest for grown-up readers, as well.

The influence of the periodicals of the day can scarcely be estimated, especially upon the rising generation. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be indifferent to this influence, or careless in relation to the character of the literature furnished to the children outside of their school lessons. In St. Nicholas not only are History, Natural Philosophy, Literature, Fine Arts, and Manufactures presentd in an attractive way to young readers, but the children are stimulated to seek information for themselves.

The Publishers will send to any address a specimen number of St. Nicholas, postage pre-paid, on receipt of ten cents, the bare cost of paper and printing. The magazines are sold by all fistcless Booksellers and Newsdealers, everywhere.

Spring Ailments of Farm Horses.

The changeable weather of Spring and early Summer is greatly provocative of colds and rheumatism, as well as disorders of the lungs in horses. Overheated by work, which at the beginning of the season is no severe than at other times, because of the previous resting stage, a cold rain occurs, and, perspiration being interfered with, waste matters deleterious to health are retained within the circulation and a febrile condition soon results. The blood is debased; inflammatory action, digestion, and impaired secretion are often followed by unnatural discharges, all a variety of troublesome disorders supervene. Of these the most prevalent are bronchial affections, coughs with copious nasal discharges, and rheumatism. Sometimes these by neglect become chronic, and the value of the animal affected is greatly impaired. It is wisest to prevent these ill results by timely precautions.

In the first place it is well not to overwork any animal, nor to stint it in its supply of food. The increased appetite consequent upon harder work should be met with concentrated rather than bulky food, for the stomach cannot safely be overloaded when the system is exhausted by labor. Digestion should be aided by regular supplies of salt and an occasional tonic consisting of a spoonful of ginger with a dram of sulphate of copper (blue vitriol). In the second place when heated with work an animal should not be left standing out of doors exposed to a sweeping shower' as is frequently the case, while its owner or driver shelters himself by the warm stove. Many rheumatic cases are thus caused, which come up suddenly, producing great stiffness and lameness. Such a case came recently to my knowledge, which being a typical one I here record its history:

A young horse had been driven until he was heated, and was then brought home in a cold rain and placed in the stables in the evening without any attention being given to him a frequent occurrence. In the morning the horse was found in great pain, and unable to rise in his stall. One fore leg and shoulder were very tender, and when the horse was raised the limb was useless, and he soon dropped again. Hot water was applyed to the limb and blankets wrapped around it and steeped in hot water, which was renewed continually; 25 drops of tincture of aconite root were given every four hours until six doses were administered. A soft head was given, and the horse was covered up with blankets. The next morning he was able to rise and, the pain disappeared, and in a few days he was recovered, prompt treatment in this case undoubtedly prevnted a prolong attack, but it was wholly avoidable by timely care. Sudden checks to free perspiration are excessively dangerous to both man and beast, and I cannot do better here than to reiterate this caution, including along with the horse his sometimes equally but self-injured master.

A Veterinary Surgeon.

Selecting Good Seed

We recently made some suggestions to our agricultural and horticultural readers in regard to raising their own seed. It is not enough to mark a few hills, or heads, or roots, or melons, &c., that shall be left for seed. The very best only of these should be preserved, and the selection carried on from year to year with an occasional variation or renewal to prevent the quality from running out, where there is any such tendency or danger towards deterioration.

But great care should be exercised in the beginning in order to get good seed to start with. The breeders of choice stock do not begin at hap hazzard. They know very well that as a general rule they can get good stock only from good stock, and so they make their choice. A first rate animal may sometimes come from an inferior race, but this is not the general result, and good breeders look carefully into the quality and the pedigree of the animals from which they breed.

The same general law holds good to a limited extent in regard to the fruits of the earth. Soil and cultivation exert a greater influence upon vegetable productions than incidental circumstances relating to animals, but "what a man soweth that may he also reap," is a law of nature and one who desires a good crop of good quality of any kind of fruit, or grain, or vegetable, should look well to the character of the germ that he puts into the ground, just as he does to the graft that he puts into the tree.

Whether for the garden or for the farm, no one should buy seed but of a seedsman in whom he has confidence. There are those who may be relied on, and there are those who may not. There are dealers who have a reputation to loose, and there are others who do not even aim to make a reputation, but only to make money. Buy of only good and true men, and get only good seed, and you have taken one of the important steps toward securing a good crop.

Under-ground Cistern.

The best shape for an underground cistern is that of an egg. The roof should be of brick. If the soil is very compact clay the lower part, or about two-thirds of the cistern, may be cemented directly upon the clay and the shoulder about six inches wide left upon which to spring the arched roof. The cestern for the arch should be made of scantling and boards, supported by posts resting upon the bottom of the cistern. The bricks of the roof should be laid in cement and afterwards the whole shoulder be cemented upon the outside to prevent leakage into the cistern. If the soil is not very compact and is unable to bear the thrust of the arched roof the whole cistern should be lined with brick.—Engineer.

PREPARING BONES.—The only practicable method of preparing bones for manure is to crush and grind them in a bone mill. The process is costly when a small quantity only is to be prepared as the power and machinery required is heavy. A small mill requires 7 to 10-horse power. The cheapest method is to reduce them in layers between layers of moist unleached wood ashes, but this process occupies some time. It is almost as costly a process to burn the bones when the loss of ammonia is taken into account.—Keystone.

A corespondent tells The Rural that in 1857, desiring to plant an apple orchard, he purchased trees from a well-known Rochester firm, who advise cutting most of the tops off. How he received the suggestion, and the consequence of action upon it, is thus related: "I must say it looked like death to the trees, but at it I went, cut every limb down to two and three buds. As an experiment, I set one row without cutting; the result was that those I cut made a growth of limbs from a foot to as long as my arm, while thoses I left didn't grow more than one to four inches.

The Philadelphia press calls the Tribune a Delfiah. This is the hardest thing yet said about the Hon. Whitelaw Ried.

PURE CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

FREE FROM ALCOHOL

VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many other, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and particularly so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for this purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Dizziness of the Chest, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Painters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. A remedy against this is to be found in the use of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors, and Diseases of the Skin or Blood, whether of a chronic or constitutional nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in Young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, WALKER'S VINEGAR Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only feasible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting this list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say, that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. Its fertility and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the saleability of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can excel it.

A railroad will soon be built to Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses; as also, two other dwellings, barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries, and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $20 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ship.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day.
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
